OVERVIEW

Logan is an associate in the firm's Business Practice Group. He assists businesses and individuals with a broad range of transactional and corporate matters, including mergers and acquisitions, business formation and governance, day-to-day contract matters, and real estate transactions.

Having earned degrees in financial management and business data analytics, he understands the complex operational, financial, and strategic challenges businesses can encounter. This perspective allows Logan to approach matters with an appreciation for both the legal and business considerations involved, helping clients find practical and effective solutions aligned with their objectives.
