OVERVIEW

Abbey is an Associate in the firm's Employment & Labor Practice Group. She works directly with partners and clients to provide practical guidance to employers on workplace issues, including employee leaves of absence, accommodations, and labor relations. Abbey has experience drafting employment agreements, contracts, employee handbooks, policies, and other client-facing materials.

Abbey's background includes working with clients in the education sector and unionized workplaces. She has participated in collective bargaining litigation, grievance resolution, disciplinary matters, and contract negotiation support.

In litigation, Abbey writes pleadings and motions, manages discovery, and prepares for and takes depositions. She also participates in workplace investigations. Abbey approaches legal matters by considering the full context of an issue, solving problems efficiently, and communicating clearly and respectfully throughout the process.
