OVERVIEW

My practice involves representing clients in matters involving business and commercial litigation, real estate, land use, zoning, and oil and gas development.

As a litigator, I have over a decade of experience handling complex disputes in courts throughout Northeast Ohio, from inception through trial. I am dedicated to providing thorough, informed, and cost-effective representation in all phases of litigation to achieve the best possible outcomes for my clients and their businesses.

I also have experience assisting real estate developers and municipalities with land use transactions involving zoning, permitting, code compliance, eminent domain, and condemnation proceedings.

Since 2011, I have represented both oil and gas producers and landowners in all phases of development, from title disputes, leasing, and mineral acquisition – through unitization, drilling, and end-market production. I have represented producers in oil and gas-related cases throughout Southeast Ohio and in the Ohio Supreme Court.

I put my clients' needs first. No matter how big or small, you can count on me to diligently advocate for you every step of the way.
